

Just then he heard Mrs. Dominick say: "Yes, there are a great many children who are crabbies, and behave in a great cruelty, and should not be allowed. Yes, they are just as nice as chickens with mothers, and mothers in general are all crabbies, and behave in a great cruelty, and should not be allowed. I have to tell you that I have a great deal of trouble with my children, for I must say, my child, that you came once a great deal of trouble. You run away when you know that that might be a great deal of trouble. You always quarrel with other children to get the biggest piece and the best share of the cake, and you are a great deal of trouble to me, and I love you, my darling." And Mrs. Dominick pressed Daisy closely to her.

Poor Yellowlegs! He was never lonesome before. Now the tears stood in his eyes as he walked slowly through the tall grass toward the big barn.
"She said mothers were lovely, and they are. I know if I had one I would neer to say a thing. With the others, she loved to make a fuss, to get things made one way or the other, to make one do right. Mothers say of love. Oh, I want a mother! sobbed Yellowlegs, as he ran to the corner and flew off to his nest without saying a word. The good supper Catherine had thrown out for the chickens.

"There!" said Catherine to Johnnie who was helping her, "that chicken has been off in the damp grass, and now it has the pip."

People never understand a chicken's feelings: some think they are without feelings at all. Yellowlegs was not like that; that night in the barn, you would have known how sad and low-spirited he felt because he had no mother to love him and to love—Bridgid Unwin.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE.

Be All Your Plans, Don't Neglect to Live for Health.

My boy, you with the bright eye and springing step, and the slightest shadow

You are going to do grand things when you are a man. Whatever vocation you have chosen, you intend to be successful in it. And that is right. But, in

I presume you have not read Sir James Spence's statistics, which show that in England and Wales as much labor is lost each year, by illness of laborers, as 20,000,000 of people could do in a week, and that would be about 100,000,000 man-days of work, and that does not count the crippled, chronic invalids or professional people, or those who live on their incomes. But it is a fact that in the United States people die every year of the disease from preventable diseases, and that 150,000 are constantly sick from ventable. Now are you going to be one of that number? You will not want to be laid aside with suffering in the midst of your grandest schemes. What will it cost you to have good health? Will it compensate for the trouble?

well. First, you will have to give up that dainty cigarette which you are twisting so gracefully in your fingers. Then, you must give up the wine and your digestion, dull your brain, and close your eyes, throat, lungs and heart, and waste your money. You will have to avoid all use of wine, beer and alcoholic drinks. You will have to give up, even the moderate drinker is dangerous physically, and can not endure accident, exposure or severe exertion. You will have to get up in the morning and will have to seek your bed at an early hour, when others are beginning their rounds of gravity, and rise when they are sinking to slumber. You will have to avoid the pleasures of the senses, and live on the simple food of the philosopher. You will have to study the laws of your body and obey them. You will have to have the strength of moral courage, but if you're the true manliness, the grit to persevere in spite of ridicule, your turn to laugh.

useful maturity, look upon your friends who fling health away in the service of pleasure, and see them writhing in pain, or silent in the grave.

Your vitality is like a sum of money put into the bank, at your birth, at it in youth, and enter manhood in physical bankruptcy, or you can use it judiciously, increase it and begin a new era of health and vigor. Health will be the most important factor in your success. In all your plans, don't neglect to plan for health.—Mary A. Allen, M. D., in Congressional Record

Mrs. D. Thomas, who has been visiting in the city for several weeks, returned home last Sunday.

Mrs. Maggie Casady of Canton, is visiting the family of Rev. Isaac Murphy at this place.

J. G. Thomas, of Louisville, was a guest of the Pieratt House Sunday night, and returned home Monday.

Col. Day and Mat Bedline have left their care to the Democratic State Central Committee to decide.

Rev. H. L. Nave arrived on Monday night, and will conduct the S. M. Convention at this place.

J. E. Smalley of Campbell spent Sunday last in Hazel Green, and his friends here are glad to see him at any time.

John M. Rose, of Stillwater, Democratic candidate for County Superintendent, has received a certificate from the State Board.

J. K. Bates, of Beaver, and John T. Thompson of Farmers, were guests of the Pieratt House Sunday night, and returned home Monday.

Ant Caroline Swango, mother of Judge and Billy, who has been visiting in Missouri and Illinois for a year past, returned home last week.

Mrs. John Ward, of the Cox Mill neighborhood, has been visiting in the city, and will leave for her home at Hazel Green on Monday.

Pat Panch and his wife passed through here yesterday, and will leave for the State to get the man James in jail there who is charged with murder in Illinois.

Judge Lusk visited Maytown one day last week, and visited the Herkimer correspondent "Lick Skillet." He declares that a more appropriate name for the place could not be found.

Mrs. W. J. Wallace, of this place, last week sent as a dozen of the finest cucumbers we have seen, and will please our friends with them.

Other lady who appreciates the hardships of a country editor.

J. B. Blackburn, representing Warren & Co., manufacturers of boots and shoes, Louisville, Ky., and visiting in the city, called on the merchants of Middle and Eastern Kentucky to see his samples before making their fall purchases.

Wm. J. Hendrick, of Flemingsburg, Ky., E. M. Leman and C. A. Thayer, of Mch., were guests of the Day House Sunday night, and left for Louisville Monday morning. They are prospecting for timber and coal in that section.

Ayer's Pills possess the positive virtues of some of the best known medicinal plants, prepared and combined with scientific skill—rejecting the crude and drastic poisons, and retaining the purgative principle—do not harm. If you are sick try them.

The case of A. M. Bowling, the Brown county desperado, for killing John Gill of Mt. Sterling, which has been pending in the Court of Appeals, was decided last week. The verdict of the lower court, 21 years in the penitentiary, was affirmed. He was taken from the Lexington jail to the pen last week.

Marion Center, living on Laurel, in this county, was handling a self-loading pistol last Sunday and accidentally discharged it, killing his infant child and wounding his son little Henry, who was nursing the child. The ball entered the child's left side and passed out the right side, cutting off the little boy's right arm and lodging in his clothing.

On Thursday, the 1st inst., Craig Talbot and Mat Carey had a row in a saloon at Newmarket, and Talbot was shot by Carey, but he managed to get away. On the following Monday night he was arrested by the officers of Talbot, C. Humphrey, and Howard Logan. Talbot was admitted to arrest, but when the officers, Wm. H. Hickey, arrived to arrest the subject, he was wounded, his son shot through the leg, and young Logan, refusing the arrest of his father, received a wound. Troops were telegraphed for, but the Governor refused to send men unless it became absolutely necessary.

The following is the Jackson Convention endorsement of Hon. Jas. Gardner of Sulphur Springs: "We, the delegates of the 10th Judicial District desire to express our enthusiastic and positive conviction that no man in the State could more ably and more faithfully represent the people of this district than Hon. Jas. Gardner, and we have therefore invited him to announce himself as a candidate for said office, subject to the action of the State Legislature at its next session, and that it would be a graceful recognition by the State to a patriotic citizen in such faithful and meritorious hands."
